

MESSI (Documentary Film)

Messi is a 2014 documentary film that deals with the life and career of Argentine soccer player. Lionel Messi, using real and fictional images, portraying the most important moments of his life since he was four years old.

This is my favorite movie because I like soccer. Lionel Messi is the best soccer player in the world. He is my idol. I think that this movie has a great message for children and young people about overcoming themselves and always

In the film they use real and fictitious images.

"When you saw him you would think: this kid can't play ball. He's a dwarf, he's too fragile, too small. But immediately you'd realise that he was born different, that he was a phenomenon and that he was going to be something impressive."

— Newell's Old Boys youth coach Adrián Coria shares his first impression of the 12-year-old Messi.^[13]
